

Skills Active Outdoor Scholarship

Sandro Carnicelli Filho (PhD candidate, Department of Tourism, Otago University) has recently been awarded the Skills Active Outdoor Recreation Research Scholarship. This scholarship supports and recognises individuals who have a proven commitment to outdoor recreation education and training.

Sandro's research investigates the emotions involved for white-water rafting guides, the importance of managing these emotions, and the possible impacts on the adventure industry in New Zealand.

It is hoped the project will initiate a broader discussion about the emotional preparation of adventure guides in New Zealand, for the benefit of outdoor guiding and adventure tourism communities around the country.

We wish Sandro well with his studies.
